Windbreaks are things that break the force of the wind. Campers and hikers are sometimes mighty glad of one to keep the camp fire from being blown to the ground and to keep from being blown upon and chilled themselves while resting after a brisk hike.

There are natural windbreaks such as high banks and big rocks, and in the lee of these you often find cheerful campers showing that someone has taken advantage of the protection they give. But banks and rocks are of no use if the wind blows over them; they must make a wall between the wind and you to be of any service. So you can not always depend on them even though you happen to be in their neighborhood.

A good plan when you go on an all day hike, especially in windy weather, is to take your belt and axo for building the windbreak if you are where you can get wood and brush and the blanket in case you camp in the open for dinner.

A brush windbreak can be put up quickly if several do the work. First chop two straight, strong stakes of wood in the open for dinner. They should be a little over four feet long and fork at the top. Sharpen the lower end of each stake to a point and drive both deep into the ground about five feet apart. If the ground is frozen, use low-branched trees instead. Put pole across from one stake to the other, resting it on the forks or crochets, and lay other poles slanting from the ground to the cross-pole, the slant toward the wind. Over this framework put plenty of brush. In summer, any kind of branches will do, in winter evergreen.

For open camp make a rubber blanket windbreak, the blanket tucking the place of brush. Better, if provided with upright and cross poles, none can be found, also small stakes to peg down the lower edge of the blanket.

Finding a Liberty Bond

A plucky little fellow against Hunting Eye's log. When he picked it up, he knew that it must be something very important, for the paper was very new and crinkly and covered with fine lines. It looked something like the paper money he had seen some time before, but that it was much blazer. He took it to his friend, the mayor.

"You must have found a Liberty Bond," said he. "You know, if we can't find the owner you can keep it. It is worth one hundred dollars."

"What is a Liberty Bond?" asked the boy from the North Woods.

"It is a promise of the government to pay the holder of the bond a certain sum of money."

"Why does the government make such promises?"

"Well, you see, when a private person needs more money than he has, many times he is able to borrow from some one else. Often he gives in return for the money he borrows a certain amount of the money. This promise to pay is called a promissory note and the person to whom the promise has been made can collect the amount in court."

"Now, when the government needs more money than it has, it can do exactly the same thing. Promises to pay made by the government in this manner are called bonds. The government prints these bonds or promises to pay. Then it sells them to whoever wishes to buy. For instance the man who lost his bond paid to the government one hundred dollars and he received for it the bond. The bond is nothing but a promise of the government to pay him in 1920 a hundred dollars, and every year before that time a certain sum of interest. A bond is not a means by which the government borrows money."

"I'll keep the bond for a couple of days and see if I can find who it belongs to. You come back next week and, if I have not found the owner by that time, I'll give it to you to keep."

Followed Her Mother's Advice

"I have gained twelve pounds in weight and feel ever so much better since taking Tanlac," said Mrs. James J. Ganas, who resides at 897 Maple St., Milwaukee, Wis., recently. Continuing she said:

"Ever since I was a girl I have suffered more or less from nervousness and in later years I have been almost a complete nervous wreck. Any little noise out of the ordinary or worry completely upset me. My hands would tremble so and I would become so weak I would have to lie down. I could not sleep well and would lie awake for hours at a time and lots of times I would become so restless I would just have to get up and walk the floor, as it was utterly impossible for me to stay in bed, and I felt so badly in the morning that it was with the greatest effort I could get up and dress the following day. I had terrible headaches once or twice a week regularly that were so bad and caused my head to throb so I felt like I imagine it would if someone were hitting it with a hammer. I had a very poor appetite and would have to force down every mouthful I ate, and I had lost my weight until I was scarcely more than a frame, and was so weak my house-work became a drudgery and I would have to sit down and rest every few minutes, and at the end of the day I would be completely tired out and exhausted."

My mother was taking Tanlac with such good results that she advised me to try it. Well, I took her advice and Tanlac began to build my nerves up right away, and after taking four bottles of it I only occasionally felt the least signs of nervousness. I could do all my housework without getting tired out and I could sleep fine and get up in the morning feeling greatly refreshed. I had a much better appetite and my headaches were less frequent and just about gone and I felt full of life and energy. This was about two months ago and I did what so many people often do, for as soon as I got to feeling so much better I stopped taking Tanlac, but I realize now that I quit too soon, for I am certain that if I had taken it for a while longer I would be in perfect condition now, and I am starting on it again and feel sure that a few more bottles will be all I need to restore me to perfect health. I know what Tanlac did for me and I do not hesitate to recommend it to others."

Tanlac is sold in Janesville by McCue & Biss and leading druggists in every city.

DECEMBER SETS NEW RECORD FOR POLICE;
ONLY 18 ARRESTED

Unless some unforeseen trouble broke up before midnight tonight, the month of December will go down as being the lightest month in the history of the local police department. The number of arrests is only 18, according to the records of Chief Thomas Morrissey, who readily credits prohibition as being the cause of the betterment of conditions. Of the 18 arrests made eight are directly traceable to liquor.

The number is five less than last month's record. Arrests made during the four previous months show a gradual decline—August, 60; September, 59; October, 38; and November, 23.

Of those taken into custody in December, 14 were taken to court and four were discharged.

Chief Morrissey leads in the number of arrests made with a total of 10. Other officers made arrests as follows: Stern, 2; Webber, Handy, O'Leary, George Champion, one each.

Arrests were made on the following charges: 6; speeding, 2; abusive language, 2; and forgery, fighting, drunkenness, wife desertion, inane suspect, reckless driving, and violating traffic ordinance, one each.

CHRISTMAS SAVINGS
CLUBS GAIN FAVOR

That Christmas savings clubs are popular here is evident from the hundreds of persons who have taken out memberships in the last 10 days. A few days still remain to join the clubs in any of the four banks.

Janesville through her Christmas clubs saved approximately $107,000 in 1919. Each bank in the city today made a statement of the amount paid out this month to club members. The total number of memberships taken out this year was 2,400, many persons taking out more than one.

Two banks reported that the dollar a week straight plan of saving was most popular with them. The dollar a week plan of one of these banks said that many who this year were members of the dollar club have increased their savings to $2 a week for next year. The other two banks announced that the five cent plan was most popular with them, either increasing or decreasing the amount. This totals $63.75 at the end of 50 weeks.

The Christmas Savings club was originated in this city by the Rock County National bank seven years ago.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

The year 1919, fast fading into the past, has been one which has tried the nerves of man. The year before it was the heart of man that was attacked. Under the process of reconstruction after the war this nation was confronted with a variety of problems which made us extend every atom of strength and resource to solve. We have not only had to consider the welfare of our own people, but we have had to consider suffering in other parts of the world.

With this task laid upon us we have been generous. That unselfish spirit which has been one of our cardinal virtues has ever been in the forefront of the general plan to rebuild a torn and bleeding world. The mass of people has left nothing undone to give succor to their less fortunate brothers and sisters. They have raised money for relief and they have lent every encouragement to those who have needed it most.

We, in retrospect, can look over the last twelve months with a great deal of satisfaction. We have been prosperous and the future holds promise of greater prosperity. We have been fair with our fellow-men and we stand ready to see them through to the end of their trials and tribulations.

We can look to the future with hope. Those elements which have endeavored to throttle our constructive program with their anarchistic ideas have at least been discouraged. With a continuation of strict policy of stamping them out whenever their useless heads rise, the next twelve months should see us fairly well settled in a condition which will bring us that happiness which the American citizen has learned to expect in his every day life.

We will not have a wet New Year's, but we will have a sane one. Instead of spending millions on a foolish celebration we will be ready to start 1920 with a clear head, a sharp eye, and a well-filled purse.

The working man is better off than he has ever been in the history of the country. Those strikes which menaced us a few weeks ago are ended, and instead of having a period of panic and hunger, we have a season of joy.

Making it up from most any angle, 1919 has been a mighty good year.

WARNINGS TO THE FIREBRANDS.

One of the notorious firebrands, who manage to keep within the law and make agitation pay, said this in a speech the other day: "They say I am a radical. Yes, I am a radical, and I hope the day will never come when I'll cease to be one. Washington, Jefferson, the two Adamses and others of the Revolutionary war and many others, including Lincoln, were radicals. They all benefited mankind. I propose to devote all my time to and energy for the benefit of the worker."

In that statement this man unconsciously disclosed the difference between the pernicious agitator and the long-visioned, unselfish, active benefactor of mankind. Let pass the presumptuousness of the socialist spouter in comparing himself to men of the type he mentioned. Their efforts were for country and peoples; his for a class-conscious group. Their solicitude was for political independence and justice for all; his is for the advancement of a few at the expense of the many. They created a popular government and preserved it; he would erect on the ruins of their structure a proletarian dictatorship. They were builders; he and his kind are destroyers.

And it is worth while considering that the radical of today is thwarted in his vicious designs by the soundness of the social structure which those others created. More, it is the principles of liberty laid down by the founders of our government which save the lives of the militant agitators of this period. Those principles cannot be separated from the structure they left to us.

They have been very much strained by men who recognize them only as conferring privilege to attack the American system, social and political. But they give no license such as is claimed. They stand for the security of America. If abuse of them goes much further the people will act in their own defense. And when they so act the radicals will be astonished to find that respect for the system which they denounce is so deeply imbedded in the hearts of the people that the very ones in whose behalf they assume to speak will be at the forefront of the demand for the eradication of the enemy class.

The signs which should put fear into the hearts of radicals like the speaker quoted are many, and they are multiplying.

MILITIA AND REGULARS.

For the welfare of the country it is to be hoped that the prediction of Major General Jesse Carter, chief of the bureau of military affairs, that in the future there will be closer co-ordination between the regular army and the national guard will be verified.

Testifying before the congressional committees on military affairs, regular army and national guard officers have presented opposing views as to the military policy the nation should adopt, the regulars being disposed to ignore the militia as an important factor in national defense and to urge compulsory military training as the method for building up a reserve force, while the national guardsmen have decared a large army of regulars and conscripted the building up of a strong militia establishment.

The contempt of the professional soldiers for the

A NEW YEAR'S WISH.
To help and cheer my fellow man,
To smooth his pathway when I can;
To bear my bit of care and hold
Myself above the lure of gold;
To keep the faith, let come what may,
To work with courage and to play,
To live this year from end to end,
Not selfishly, but as a friend.

I do not ask the coming year
To shower me with gifts of cheer,
Or have my pathways strangely turned
To selfish joys I have not earned;
I do not ask one single day
Of merriment or idle play
Beneath a sky serenely fine,
If it shall not be rightly mine.

But from the coming year I ask
The strength to do my daily task;
God grant that I may do my part
And show no bitterness of heart;
I would go forth from day to day
To service in a bigger way,
And try by true endeavor here
To make of it a happy year.

HEALTH A HABIT

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Washington, Dec. 31.—Health, says the federal bureau of education, is largely a matter of habit.

This statement was not unheeded as a sensation. In fact it passed almost unheeded. As today the hum of an airplane attracts almost no attention, so does a declaration like this, coming from the governmental agency which has most to do with the education of young America, pass without notice. Yet two decades ago the theory that health is a habit would have received no more credence than one that a machine weighing two tons would rise into the air and fly.

Everywhere, continues the bureau, there is a demand for instructors who can teach health to the teachers who are ambitious, who want to get ahead in their callings, the great opportunity lies in a capacity to stimulate a belief in health to create an attitude of mind favorable to health.

Health Can Be Taught.
The bureau holds that the nation has experienced an awakening as to the value of health, and that the belief that health can be taught, it believes that in the past and the present generation there were, and are many people with the false impression—that the illness idea was so persistently drilled into them that they were branded with it for life. Now the program is to be changed, and the schools are to be the medium.

The bureau of education has recently printed four bulletins and three charts on this idea. There is one, entitled "Make Health Habits Automatic in Youth," one on the "Summer and Play School," one on "Diet for the School Child," one entitled "Wanted: Teachers to Enlist for Child Health Service." They may be bought for a few cents from the superintendent of documents, Washington, D. C.

The children of the country, over 25,000,000 strong, says the bureau, named of these bulletins, "who represent our nation's future, are endangered. The physical impairment of the coming generation is one of the most disastrous by-products of the great war, and one whose after-effects, once established, can never be fully wiped out. The war does not end this danger. These war effects can, however, be prevented, and the teachers of the country can make a big contribution to this work of prevention. If demands immediate activity. Hence this call to you for service.

Opportunity Is Now Here.

"You may be the teacher of a rural school in charge of perhaps only 20 members of the creators of our future. Or you may be a superintendent, responsible for 20 segments of children. In any case, you will have an opportunity this year, in connection with their health, which may never recur in the history of the country. A little strategy, wisely applied at this time of crisis, will accomplish great results. Your opportunity is one which only you can develop."

Then the bureau proceeds to outline the new gospel and the method that should be followed in its preaching. It says that the teaching should be positive and not negative. The command, "Thou shalt not," shall be changed to "Thou shalt." It shall read: "Don't fail to brush your teeth because if you do you will decay. All your system with poison and spoil your digestion. On the contrary, the advice shall be: Brush your teeth, enjoy the feeling of fresh, clean mouth, let them glisten when you smile, let them do efficient work with your stomach, that you may enjoy strength."

The child shall not be told not to get his feet wet for fear it will catch his death of cold, but to wear his rubbers that it may be strong and healthy. It shall not be told not to eat certain food for fear of the tummy ache, but to eat a balanced food that it may be husky enough to play basketball, and have a good time in the world. The "don'ts" all along the line which suggest weakness and calamity shall give way to positive commands which suggest always happiness and joy and health. The new gospel is that is thus coming into official recognition is that continuous suggestion has its effect on the well-being of the individual. The parent who constantly suggests illness is actually inflicting illness on the child. The individual in any walk of life who suggests illness, exercising a health influence on all his fellows.

New Meaning of Old Story.
The public authorities are reading a new meaning into some of the old stories in the physiologies. It was a hundred years ago that certain scientific men in France asked the authorities to allow them to try an experiment on a criminal who was condemned to death. Instead of the guillotine, it was given out, this man was to be comfortably bled to death. The ceremony was elaborately staged. The man was blindfolded and put to bed. His wrists were bound and the doctors proceeded to what seemed to be an opening of the arteries of those

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY E. MOULTON

WOULDN'T YOU?

If I were a scientist
And had made a crack
That the world was
Coming to an end
On a certain day
And scared a lot of people
Who are easily scared
And caused them to prepare
For the end and buy rabies
And live in deadly apprehension
For many days, bordering
On nervous prostration—
And then the world waggled on
Just the same as before.
I would quit the science game
And get a new job.
Driving a horse and buggy
In some isolated city
In New Zealand or Timbuctoo
And nobody would see me
Around the old classroom.
Any more.

Life always holds something in store. We have been manhandled and have eaten a banana submarine, but we have never yet been shaved by a lady barber.

MY DEAR, YOU SHOULD HAVE

After the church services a bounteous dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Pierson, which was attended by about fifty relatives and friends. The groom was prettily decorated with pink and white chrysanthemums and roses.—Delavan (Ill.) Republican.

A soap manufacturer has become the campaign manager of a presidential candidate. Seems as though a soap manufacturer would be more to the point for such a job.

We remember many years ago we heard an old man say it would be a cold day when eggs sold for a dollar a dozen. Well, the old man was right. It's a cold day.

The fools are not the only ones who are soon parted from their money these days.

WHY WE LIKE TO RIDE IN THE STREET CAR.

"Sure, ain't I got the indigestion sunnink awful. Gee, I don't get nothin' out of the best food I eat. First I comes home and gets et and then Jackie he comes home and gets et." (Overheard in a Main street car, Buffalo.)

About the meanest campaign lie we have heard this far is the one to the effect that Leonard Wood might be a descendant of the man who invented wood alcohol.

There are probably a lot of himps out in the sticks who are glad that eggs are a dollar a dozen.

It has not reached the point where the Germans demand indemnity of the entente, but almost anything seems possible.

The Mexicans have killed only 555 Americans thus far. They better not make it a thousand, that's all we have to say.

CAN HE WORK A CUBA BOARD?

Any one wanting a cheap room, but at home nights with an old gentleman, inquire at this office.—Columbia City Post.

Just to keep the record straight, and the eternal fitness of things in good working order, we feel in duty bound to announce the fact that Farmer lives at Naukaika Post Office, Virginia.

Q. When did ice cream first come into use? E. H. D.

A. Ice cream was introduced to the English aristocracy of the late eighteenth century, by a London confectioner named Guntion, who is often accredited with having been the inventor. "Dolly" Madison was one of the first to serve ice cream at presidential receptions, and this aid much toward popularizing it in this country.

Q. What are some of the largest libraries in the world? M. F.

A. There are at least five libraries in the world which contain more than one million volumes. These in the order of their magnitude are the Bibliotheque Nationale of Paris, which contains 3,000,000 volumes; the British Museum, the Imperial Library of St. Petersburg, the Congressional Library at Washington, and the New York Public Library.

Q. Were mortgages used by the ancients?

A. The oldest investment on earth is the real estate mortgage. In ancient Babylon, 2100 years before Christ, money was loaned on mortgage, while a great Babylonian banking house, founded about 600 B. C., invested large sums in mortgages on both city and farm property. Some of these mortgages were recorded on bricks, which were buried and preserved in great earthenware jars. These have been dug up in modern times.

Q. What is the origin of the word "postoffice"? E. A. L.

A. Originally a "post office" was the office which arranged all details concerning the posts—that is the places on the great roads where relay out horses and men could be obtained for the rapid forwarding of the king's dispatches.

Q. Can you give me a recipe for making Thousand Island dressing? E. E. H.

A. The following recipe is recommended: One-half cup of olive oil, juice of one-half lemon, one-half orange, one teaspoonful Worcestershire sauce, six sliced olives, six sliced chestnuts, one-half teaspoonful salt, one-fourth teaspoonful paprika, one-third teaspoonful mustard. Put all the ingredients in a fruit jar, cover closely and shake well. The dressing is smooth. This dressing may be served on lettuce, andive, asparagus, tomatoes, beans, and spinach.

Q. What does the word "blimp" mean? J. M. C.

A. This is the term applied to small non-rigid airships. It is a slang word, originating with the English.

Q. What were the English losses in ships of the navy during the World War? L. W. C.

A. Great Britain's naval losses were: Twelve battleships, 15 armored cruisers, 30 light cruisers, 19 destroyers, 3 hospital ships, 12 transports, 5 gunboats, and 5 obsolete cruisers purposely sunk in the Ostend harbor.

Pay CASH—and pay LESS! Carry your OWN—and SAVE!
Here's what Benjamin Franklin had to say about the "cash and carry" plan as applied to the consumer:
"In buying goods, 'tis best to PAY READY MONEY. He that sells upon credit expects to lose a certain substantial per cent BY BAD DEBTS; therefore he charges up on all he sells upon credit an advance that shall MAKE UP THE DEFICIENCY."
"Those who PAY for what they buy, but buy upon CREDIT, pay their share of this advance."
"He that pays ready money ESCAPES, or may escape, that charge. Save and HAVE! A penny SAVED is twopence CLEAR. A pin a day is a great a YEAR!"

But we can't continue increasing our production unless we continue increasing our railroad facilities.

The farms, mines and factories cannot increase their output beyond the capacity of the railroads to haul their products.

Railroads are now near the peak of their carrying capacity.

Without railroad expansion—more engines, more cars, more tracks, more terminals—there can be little increase in production.

But this country of ours is going to keep right on growing—and the railroads must grow with it.

To command in the investment markets the flow of new capital to expand railroad facilities—and so increase production—there must be public confidence in the future earning power of railroads.

The nation's business can only grow as fast as the railroads grow.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: How should I serve a luncheon for a small company?

Is it proper to serve the places in the kitchen and take them to the table?

Please tell me how the different courses are served? Is the salad brought on with the vegetables or as a course by itself?

YOUNG HOUSEKEEPER.
You will probably find it helpful to get a book at the library which will tell you at length about arranging the table and serving. Many cook-books contain this information.

If there is a butler or maid it is all right to serve before taking the plates to the table. If, however, you serve your own dinner, you will find it less confusing to serve when the butlers are seated at the table.

The courses are as follows:
1st. Soup.
2nd. Fish.
3rd. Meat and vegetables.
4th. Salad.
5th. Dessert.

In order to give steps the salad is often brought on with the meat course.

It is not imperative to have a scup course. For often fruit cocktails are substituted. Grape fruit cut up and sugared makes a tempting fruit cocktail. If desired other fruits can be added.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: An article about spiritualism appeared in your column. The writer of the article said that spiritualism is a "dead" thing and that communication with the so-called dead was impossible. Let me say emphatically that he never had the proper knowledge of the subject.

Spiritualism, when handled properly, never wrecked any human life. Any religion, I care not what it is, will get the best of you, if you are intelligent and are minded enough to comprehend the duties.

How dreadful to feel that when you leave this body it is the end. I used to feel that way, too, but I thank God, the Great Universal Power of Love, I have found a different way. Spiritualism is a science, philosophy and religion of continuous life, based upon demonstrated facts, by means of mediumship with those who live in the spirit world.

Spiritualism is God's message to mortals, declaring that there is no death—that all who have passed on still live—that there is hope in life beyond even for the most sinful.

MRS. W. H.
Your expression of your faith in spiritualism is most interesting and I would like to see you. I have been separated for some time. He attends public dances frequently in several different towns. Do you think it is proper for me to attend public dances, too, in my home town?

Would you answer a certain question, concerning myself and husband, by mail if I send a stamp for reply?

MRS. C.
Without knowing the particulars in your case, it is difficult to advise. I would suggest, however, that it would be better not to attend public dances. If you do, people will talk, which you want to avoid, and, if I may say so, I will answer you by personal letter if you will send a stamped and addressed envelope.

She Married an Average Man

By ZOË BECKLEY.

I am wretched. I can't think what to do. If a steel ball separated Jim and me we couldn't seem further apart. His words ring in my head. "I guess we don't understand each other."

Can Jim be right? Are there fundamental differences between us? Because if there are the very props of our marriage are shaken. The cardinal sin of unfaithfulness is not terrible as the cold fact of temperamental unlikeness.

I could not get through with my job. For the first time since I've had my "job" with the "Messenger" the "Correspondence Corner" letters have gone unanswered.

But, as if to cheer me and bid me hope, the morning mail brought my third check for an unaccepted story. Still, I felt the need for a change. I walked three miles, thinking, thinking, and ended up at Athena's.

Now, look here, chick," she whispered, after making me eat a scotch—fat old lunch, "you're seeing things out of proportion again. I'm saying, remember, under any circumstances, four-fifths of everybody's work must be bad. But the remainder is worth the trouble for its own sake."

Apply that to marriage. Put it this way: Remember, four-fifths of married life must be more or less a struggle. Try to do the made good enough and satisfying enough to build happiness on.

Now, kiddie, don't let this thing get you down. Sit tight and think how many ties there are between you. Try to realize that this is only a bad spot, and that if you don't get excited and fall down in the mud you'll soon pick your way through it and come out into easy walking again.

NET SUIT BLOUSE FOR DRESSY WEAR

By ELOISE.

The junior miss and the "sub-dot" are so often slighted by the fashion designers that almost any dress especially made for these hard-to-please and hard-to-please young girls is welcomed with a sigh of relief by their mothers.

Although the coat suits always appeal to them they really should not wear them if it takes a mother's money to look well in a blouse and separate skirt. The one-piece frock, however, is always safe and it is universally becoming.

Here is a smart taffeta frock which is just the thing for the young miss. It is simple yet its hip flutings and panels and draped bodice artfully conceal any awkwardness or angular lines which are so often the main features of the young girl's figure. This frock is pretty and practical when made of navy or French blue taffeta, but it is also good in brown, taupe or rose color.

It is a pretty frock to have the ruffles, the panels and the sleeves and neck-line faced with some vivid contrasting color which shows now and then when the pert little miss flounces around.

The Daily Novelette

CHITTY-CHITTY.

The taxi threaded its way slowly in and out before and behind and around the dense traffic of Piggy-dirty street. Its sole occupant was a small short man of some 50 winters.

Suddenly he started and fixed his gaze on a small glittering object in the street. He jumped up and opened the door.

"See a pin and pick it up—all the days you'll have good luck," he muttered, as he jumped off the moving vehicle and landed on his bald knob. Luckily, nothing was coming his way.

So he arose, shook himself a little and hurried back to the spot where lay the little omen of his all-day's good luck.

Stooping over to pick it up, his eyeglasses fell off, hit the curb and shattered into a million pieces.

Making another reach for the glittering object, a motorcycle whizzed by and blew his new grey felt into a mud puddle.

Another try for the pin, an auto horn in sight, hit him in the equator, where he turned a complete somersault with his watch roll under the rear wheels of the truck and then feebly lifted his head.

But oh, and oh! At last! The pin lay within easy reach of his hand. But wasn't he the lucky bear?

For as he picked up the object of his search, an ambulance came around the corner and gave him a lift—into it.

But what cared he? Ha! He had the pin.

Snatching it into his hands, he was surprised to feel that it didn't stab him. Slavishly looking at it, he found it was a silver tin foil.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

Miss Nellie M. Scott.

From office boy to president of a company is such a usual thing that people no longer marvel when they read about such instances in the rise of self-made men. But it is still a strange thing for a woman to become president of a company. No matter what her beginnings were, it is therefore with interest that women will read of the rise of Miss Nellie M. Scott who climbed from the position of stenographer to president of a large manufacturing company.

Miss Scott started in as stenographer and general clerk in the Bantam Ball Bearing Company at Bantam, Conn., where the firm was quartered in a small little shack. As the business grew and increased and larger quarters and more help were needed Miss Scott grew with it and she finally was made secretary to the president of the concern. The president has now retired and Miss Scott has been appointed to succeed him. She is naturally adapted to the duties of the business organization and management, and has been an director in the company for some time past.

Miss Scott believes that women are as capable of handling executive positions as men and is glad that she will have the chance to prove to herself that she is right. The company is operated on a profit-sharing plan, which was sponsored to a great extent by its new woman president.

PETITIONER RULE
Down in the little island of Tiburon, in the Gulf of California, when a dark-skinned youth of the Seri tribe is captivated by the charm of a dusky maiden, and she reciprocates, she does not timidly suggest that he "ask father."

Father has nothing to do about the matter. Mother is the all-important member of the family, and it is to mother that the candidate for daughter's hand presents his claims.

Thereby, otherwise known as Shark Island, is a real Amazon kingdom, or perhaps queenhood. The women are the heads of the family and rule with a hand of iron, graciously permitting them to attend to the work of gathering food, wood, and water, while the wives, mothers and daughters take care of the serious business of governing the country.

Although all the men of Tiburon are under the rule of their women folk, the newly married husband is the most abject of slaves. He must be the heavier of wood and drawer of water for his dusky wife.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Discovering the orthopedist on the hills of the feet? I never heard of high heels or pointed shoes and yet I have had extremely painful callouses for two years. I have tried several different cures, which only led to the outer skin leaving the center to grow again in a week. I visited a chiropodist several times, but she wasn't any more successful than the fake corn cures. (C. J. L.)

Answer—Practically the cause of such a callous is a defect of the transverse arch. Don't you think the trouble is important enough to have competent treatment? In your place I would consult an orthopedic surgeon.

For a Child Who Wets the Bed
I'd like to know what I can do for a child who wets the bed so frequently every night. I have tried whipping but it makes no impression. (M. L.)

Answer—Advice about the management of that disease will be sent on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope. Whipping should not be employed.

Zwiback
I read on the package that Zwiback is good to give children and invalids. Has it any other uses? How old should a child be before one should feed it Zwiback? (A. W.)

Answer—Zwiback is no more nourishing than toast or bread. Zwiback is a food and should be given to a child. The package renders it more so. It is important to begin to take a little bread with broth.

JAPANESE WOMEN DISCARD KIMONO
Dallas, Tex. (By Mail).—Japanese women, famed for their kimono-style attire, are about to throw off the yoke of dress in the interest of efficiency. Miss Michi Kawai, general secretary of the Japanese National Y. W. C. A., told the southwestern field headquarters of the Y. W. C. A. here.

"Organization is making demands on women in Japan these days and they must be free to readily adapt to the new style of dress in the interest of efficiency," Miss Michi Kawai, general secretary of the Japanese National Y. W. C. A., told the southwestern field headquarters of the Y. W. C. A. here.

"The result is that women can no longer spend endless hours cleaning and remaking respective wardrobes of members of the family as is necessary with the present form of dress."

"Women of ordinary circumstances in Japan have 50 or so dresses made of linen, cotton, silk or mixed materials, varying with the use to be made of them. In addition the Japanese women must have at least two kinds of coats, one cut with a square neck and one with an ordinary kimono neck."

"These dresses are made by hand and are constantly making to give them a new look. There is something painful in the sight of a high school girl who indulges in cigarettes or a pipe while attending high school. It is a real danger to her for real boys and girls to be forced to associate with. In my opinion that is the worst thing that can happen to a girl. I would not be permanent school by the principal for the general welfare and the maintenance of morals. As I have said before and now repeat, I wouldn't be a school teacher if I could not understand how parents can condone this sort of thing and I do not see why school authorities should hesitate to clean house on such a subject."

There is nothing in cigarettes that makes them one whit more injurious in any way, so far as I know, than cigars or the pipe. But cigarette smoking is taken up by boys who would not be likely to indulge in cigars, and worse still, girls a trifle feck in the upper story sometimes trail along in the foot of his class or falling in more than a fair share of his subjects. A great western university instructor informed me that in many years he had noticed that no smoker has ever attained scholastic honors.

There is one direction in which it is too obvious that the tobacco smoking youth is rather precocious, and that is in the matter of sexual life. It is for this reason that I say that parents who fail to exact from boys a solemn pledge not to use tobacco until 21 fail in a plain duty. And boys who cannot give and keep such a pledge are unworthy of the sacrifices parents and other fond relatives and must be ripped apart at least once a year, laundered or cleaned and put together again. Japanese women do not take kindly to the street cars, largely for the reason that their delicate kimonos are liable to be soiled.

"This movement for the adoption of a simplified style of dress and American machine-made clothes which can be laundered intact began in the government and private schools for girls where a uniform, cut on lines similar to dress worn by some school girls in the United States, has been made compulsory."

The Great Wall of Modern Science—Sickness Prevention

The Great Wall of China is centuries old, but its basic idea is sound—it is better to keep your enemies out than to fight them after they have entered.

The plan of modern medical science is the same. Anti-toxins and serums are even more important in preventing the spread of disease than in curing it; and in its fight for sickness prevention science has now found a treatment for the condition that is the root of over 90% of all disease—constipation.

This is the Nujol treatment. Constipation is such a dangerous

ALL-STARS PLAY HIGH SCHOOL TEAM AT 'Y' TOMORROW

Tomorrow night will witness snappy basketball at the 'Y' gym here when Coach Crabtree's high school team meets the fast 'Y' All-Stars at 8:15. Though the game is considered a practice one, both teams will take the floor with the red of keen rivalry in their eyes.

The All-Stars, under the development of Physical Director Craig, have grown considerably in strength. Conceded to be the junior champions of the city, special interest in the game lies in the fact that Hager, formerly one of the Stars' fastest players, now is a member of the high school team. He is the best player on the Blue team and close guarding will be placed over in the form of Graesslin.

High School Strengthened. While Janesville has not won a game this season, belief is held that the team has been greatly improved during the Christmas holidays by constant practice.

The lineup for each team is only tentative. However, it follows:

All-Stars: Babcock, Graft and possibly Bick as forward. It is not definitely known whether Bick will play because of injuries received early in the season.

High School: Graesslin, Pross, Zahn and Marko will play guard. Babcock and Pullman will not doubt cage most of the Stars' baskets.

High School: Bick and Hager, forwards; Tunstead and Smith, center; Black, Powers and Hall, guards. There is a possibility that Newman may play part of a game. Powers' injury to his shoulder may keep him off the floor.

VOTE BOXING INTO COLLEGE COURSES

New York, Dec. 31.—Appointment of a committee on boxing was announced by the National Collegiate Athletic Association here tonight.

It was urged in the acceptance of a report made by Dr. R. Tait McKenzie of the University of Pennsylvania, who requested that the committee be charged with the object of bringing the report to the physical curriculum to take its place among other intercollegiate competitions.

All the officers of the association were re-elected. The association session included several speakers, notably Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, who spoke, in a general way, on "Efficiency as a National Asset."

K. C. M. Sills, president of Bowdoin College, deprecated paying of football coaches in proportion to gate receipts.

Chicago was chosen as the 1920 convention city.

BUCK

Of the STARS AND STRIPES A. E. F.

NEW YEAR'S TOAST
Drink hearty to Luck!
I'll say that I've had
My share of it, buddy.
Both kinds—good and bad.

There was luck that was good.
Just to buddy with you,
The hard luck to soldier,
Good luck to get through.

There was luck that was tough,
Say a hike with full pack,
Good luck to get over,
Better luck to get back.

Rough stuff as a buck,
Digging trenches and drains,
Better luck than the shovels,
Supposed to have brains.

So here's to our luck,
If it says we won't curse,
We learned in the army
It might always be worse.

And to add to the rest of our troubles, says ex-Sergt. SOI, we've got nothing worth swearing off of this year.

WHAT IS IN A NAME?
Dinner Bell Page, R. F. D. 28, Trich, Mo., is the bonafide moniker of one vet paying his W. R. I. We hope that they had the decency to make him Mess Sergeant, at least.

REMEMBER THAT NIGHT?
It was New Year's eve, 1918. There had been no attempt to get any special sort of spread for Christmas. It couldn't be done. But New Year's Eve! That was to be the big celebration. Chicken, or steak at least, and pie, too. There were big preparations, at least preparations were in the air. Everybody did their fatigue with less kicking than usual. Even the K. P.'s didn't worry so much because they knew they could have seconds and thirds, too, if they worked it right.

Then at last Chow sounded, and there was the usual banging of mess-kits, the usual pushing, the usual high brand of humor. But through it all ran a strain of cheer that didn't even wither when, as per usual, the special duty men crowded in at the head of the line between the non-coms and the bugler.

Then you moved up. And they loaded down your mess-kit with chicken, and mashed potatoes, and cake and—oh, boy!

Remember that night?
Well, neither do we.

IT WAS AN ILL WIND
A pitiful creature passed my door.
His head was bent and his face was pale.
I stopped him and asked for his tragic tale.
For I thought he had suffered the horrors of war.

But the stranger wearily shook his head,
And shrugged his shoulders and cynically laughed,
"I married," he moaned, "to escape the draft
And found I was caught by a whirlwind instead."

NOT 100-PROOF AMERICAN!
Press reports state that American arms are selling whiskey to Germany at $2.00 a quart. Here, indeed, is a matter that the patriotic veteran societies should stop. From where we sit this looks very much like giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

No formations tomorrow—Tail out!
Princeton's football coach, in an address attributed the unusual popularity this year of his presidential administration called together the coaches of Harvard, Princeton and Yale and set in motion proceedings which ultimately resulted in making football one of the cleanest and safest games in America.

Mr. Roper credited the first action in America.

FORMER U. W. STAR TO COACH INDIANA

Indianapolis, Dec. 31.—Ewald O. (Jumbo) Stehm has signed a five-year contract as director of athletics at Indiana university. This action was taken at a meeting of the athletic committee in Bloomington Sunday, but official announcement will probably be withheld until after the contract has been ratified by the university trustees.

Stehm, a former Wisconsin football star, has been at Indiana three years, coming from Nebraska. The salary he is to receive has not been made public but it is said to be a substantial increase over his former contract.

TEAMS SET FOR BIG COAST GRID GAME

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Pasadena, Dec. 31.—Harvard and Oregon football teams today were ready for their contest at Tournament tomorrow.

Training was over except for light workouts this morning, and the teams will oppose each other so far as condition counts on their present shape. More than 30,000 people are expected to witness tomorrow's game.

OTIS, IN FAST GAME, DEFEATS CANNEFAX

New York, Dec. 31.—Counting almost a point a minute, Charley Otis of Brooklyn defeated Robert Cannefax, the champion, in the first block of their 150 point exhibition three cushion match last night. The score was 50 to 47 in forty-five innings. It was one of the fastest cushion games ever witnessed in this city, only one hour being consumed. Otis averaged 1.5-45. Cannefax's average was 1.2-45.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS WILL BE FOUND ON PAGE 12.

BELOIT TO REVIVE BASKETBALL TOURNEY

Beloit, Dec. 31.—Beloit college will revive its annual interscholastic basketball tournament for southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois this year on Feb. 13 and 14, it was announced on Tuesday.

Eight leading teams of the two states will compete. Two games will be necessary to eliminate a team from the running. Beloit college will play Carroll college in a Wisconsin conference championship game on the Friday night of the tourney as a special attraction. War curtailment measures made the 1916 meet the last, when Elgin High school took first honors.

Beloit, Rockford, Belvidere, Freeport, Elgin, Madison, Janesville, and Northwestern Military academy of Lake Geneva are considered likely contestants. Invitations to compete will be sent following the comparison of 1920 records, which are to be submitted to Coach Little here by Feb. 6. Little has run tourneys at Center college, Ky., where he was formerly coach.

TEAMS ARE SET FOR CHAMPIONSHIP GAME AT ARMORY THURSDAY

TOMORROW'S LINE-UP

Red Crowns Lakota Cardinals
Gus Griesler, c. H. Demody
Svein Johnson, r. f. Edler
Bill Pease, c. Brunan
George Weiss, l. b. Williams
Paddy Driscoll, p. Dalton
Lefty Dean, m. Gorman, center; Al Marquardt, forward; and George Hall, guard, for the Red Crowns. Philbrick, forward; and Casper, guard, for the Cardinals.

They're set. Only two hours of practice in the afternoon tomorrow intervenes to give the two fastest teams on the basketball court in the middle west another chance to smooth the rough spots for the biggest game in many moons. Each team is on its mettle, playing to get started. The men are straining at the leash. The game is slated at the armory. It starts at 8 o'clock.

Hailed as the "theoretical" championship game of the middle west, the contest will draw hundreds of fans. The managers of the local club are receiving telephone calls from out of town requesting seats be reserved for the game. This does not mean that Janesville sports will be denied a chance to attend. Stated was again made today at basketball headquarters that sufficient reserved seats are left to take care of everyone. They are now on sale at the cigar stands in the city. General admissions will be sold at the door tomorrow night, commencing at 5 o'clock.

Game Advertising City. Inasmuch as the game is advertising Janesville, the Lakota boys say that they took to the business men of the city to give them every support. This does not mean that they will make any canvass of commercial houses, stores or offices; they merely request attendance at the game. George Bennett will referee the game, according to word received here last night from the Red Crowns that they agree to have him. This not only is a victory for the Cardinals, inasmuch as the Red Crowns wanted Loyd of Beloit, but it is a marked compliment to Bennett.

The Lakota aggregation has done its part in bringing this classic event to town. It is now up to the fans to give them every support by a large attendance.

"If anyone doubts that Janesville does not have more different industries than any other city of equal population in the middle west it will pay him to come to the 'Y' and see the products that are made in his home town," said J. C. Koller, industrial secretary.

"We are all set for the New Year's day program. We would enjoy having the mothers and fathers of members of the boys' department come in and see in what activities their boys are engaged when they telephone home and say that they are 'going now to the 'Y'," said A. C. Preston, boys' secretary.
